

Disposable Financial Tools (DFT) does not reveal end user account number during regular or Internet transaction/charge back.

Abstract of the Disclosure:

Disposable Financial Tools (DFT) carried on portable electronic financial apparatus with multiple financial account embedded/residing with queen, Drone (exit), check/bundled number. When used in transaction, The Drone number is automatically altered or lock from IEI network and or banking system after gaining access, process and approved, prevent used DFT with the same exit number from gaining access to IEI network/banking system again. Sleek Check (Midget Check) none-deposit electronic check with its banking information hidden under magnetic strip. Revels when check is scanned or swipe. Payer signature is electronically stored on issuer electronic check image after transaction process and approved. IEICard, an Internet payment card that does not reveal end user account number during web transaction. Gift card pre-issued system, allowed accountholder, to write receptions name and amount on the cards at anytime. potable remote apparatus carrying check and credit card numbers.

4/03/06

Patent & Trade mark Office
Art Unit # 2876 – Stephen Paik
P. O. box 1450
Alexandria, VA 22313-1450

Lee Blackman
601 Park PL
Brooklyn, NY 11238

Please accept the amendment to the claims, drawings and or specification.

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "Lee Blackman", is written over a horizontal line. The signature is enclosed in a pair of slanted forward slashes.

Lee Blackman